

How to Change Your PRC Registered Name after Marriage

Published on Jan 22, 2014

For Filipino Female Professionals registered at the Professional Regulation Commission changing their registered name after getting married can be a chore. Find out how you can have a hassle-free time at the PRC.

All Rights Reserved © 2014 Zero MD

The Professional Regulation Commission is the Philippine governing body for certifying individuals as professionals in the various working groups. Renewal of PRC licenses can be done at SM Malls nowadays which makes it easy. However for women who recently got married, changing the status and registered name is a big hassle.

I'm going to show you tips on how to make it through the PRC flood of people and get done as early as 30 minutes.

To Download the "Petition for Change of Registered Name due to Marriage":

<http://bit.ly/changeprc>

To View the Video on Teen Sex, Early Pregnancy, HIV and AIDS:

<http://bit.ly/teensexed>

To View the Video on Condom Relay, Family Planning, and Peer Education

<http://bit.ly/peerEdFP>

For other methods of PRC renewals: <http://www.prc.gov.ph/registration/?i...>

Like me on facebook.com/zeromella

Follow me on twitter.com/zeromd

Look also here: www.certificates.aboutphilippines.ph and www.authorities.aboutphilippines.ph